make the world a better place, and be a sister to every Girl Scout.

The Girl Scout Mission Statement

Girl Scouting builds girls of courage, confidence, and character, who make the world a better place.

Who We Are

Girl Scouts is the world's preeminent organization dedicated solely to girls - all girls - where, in an accepting and nurturing environment, girls build character and skills for success in the real world. In partnership with committed adults, girls develop qualities that will serve them all their lives - like strong values, social conscience, and conviction about their own potential and self-worth.

In Girl Scouts, girls discover the fun, friendship, and power of girls together. Through the many enriching experiences provided by Girl Scouting, they grow courageous and strong.

WHAT I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT POLICY

Delegates are voices for service units on policy issues. It is important that delegates understand what a policy is, what the purposes of policies are, what groups are involved in policy, and what the responsibilities of each group are. Delegates serve as a communication link between service units and the Board of Directors.

What is a policy?

A policy is an established course of action that must be followed.

Policies are established by Girl Scouts of the USA (published in Blue Book of Basic Documents) and the Board of Directors of Girl Scouts of Gulfcoast Florida, Inc. (published in Volunteer Policies).

Policies are binding and must be followed without exception.

What are the purposes of policies?

- Point the way for developing plans, solving problems, and achieving objectives
- Provide the framework for delegation and control in the carrying out of work
- Permit uniform and consistent action throughout the council
- Allow quick and effective decisions to be made
- Ensure the risk management plan of the council

What groups are involved in policy?

- Policy Making
Board of Directors
- Policy Influencing
Service Units (by electing delegates)
Service Unit Delegates
Board Committees and Task Groups
- Policy Implementing
Chief Executive Officer
Employees
Operational Unit Volunteers
Service Unit Volunteers

What are the responsibilities of these groups?

Policy Making is a responsibility that belongs solely to the Board of Directors. Only the Board of Directors can establish, change, or grant exceptions to existing policies.

Policy Influencing is a responsibility shared by registered members of the Girl Scout Movement, 14 years of age or older, to allow them to initiate and influence change regarding policies.

- Service units elect delegates to be members of the council.
- Service unit delegates vote for officers and members-at-large of the Board of Directors, and the delegates and alternates to the National Council of Girl Scouts of the USA; provide input for Girl Scouting in the council by receiving and responding to reports and information from the Board of Directors about major policy decisions and helping to set strategic direction; amend the Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws; take all other action requiring membership vote; conduct such other business as may come before the voting members.
- Board Committees and Task Groups make policy recommendations to the Board of Directors.

Policy Implementing is the responsibility shared by management volunteers and employees performing the day-to-day activities of the council. Under the direction of the chief executive officer, the volunteers and employees strive to achieve the council's goals and objectives. The chief executive officer is accountable to the Board of Directors for the total management of the council, as stated in the Bylaws.

GOVERNANCE AND MANAGEMENT

The functions of governance and management are critical to the success of Girl Scout councils.

Governance in Girl Scouting is the process by which the Board of Directors, led by the president, exercises its ultimate authority and fulfills its responsibility:

- for furthering and ensuring the Girl Scout mission
- for the care, custody, and oversight of Girl Scouting within its jurisdiction
- for providing strategic direction and leadership for the council

Management in Girl Scouting is the process by which the chief executive officer fulfills the responsibility for:

- developing and implementing a system and processes to carry out the strategic direction set by the Board of Directors
- providing for leadership and direction to the employees and operational volunteers in carrying out the day-to-day operations of the council
- supporting the Board of Directors in carrying out its governance responsibilities

There is a partnership between the Board of Directors and chief executive officer to carry out the work of the council. Both the Board of Directors and chief executive officer work separately and together in three major areas of responsibility. These areas are:

- Stewardship of Girl Scouting within the jurisdiction
- Strategic leadership and direction
- Stewardship of the Corporation

Policy influencing groups (service units, service unit delegates, Board committees and task groups) provide valuable input to the Board of Directors and chief executive officer to guide them in accomplishing the work of the council.

Delegates, as policy influencing volunteers, have the final decision in electing officers and members-at-large of the Board of Directors, National Council Delegates, and amending the Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws.

The “Roles and Responsibilities in Governance and Management” chart outlines the interaction between groups involved in the functions of governance and management.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The Council

The council is the membership body charged with giving broad policy direction to the future of the Girl Scout Movement in Girl Scouts of Gulfcoast Florida, Inc. A fundamental principle of Girl Scouting, “. . . the democratic process shall guide all our activities,” is reflected by the council. The powers and responsibilities of the council, as outlined in the Bylaws of Girl Scouts of Gulfcoast Florida, Inc., are:

1. Elect the officers, the members-at-large of the Board of Directors, and the delegates and alternates to the National Council of Girl Scouts of the USA;
2. Provide input for Girl Scouting in the council by receiving and responding to reports and information from the Board of Directors about major policy decisions and helping to set strategic direction;
3. Amend the Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws;
4. Take all other action requiring membership vote; and
5. Conduct such other business as may come before the members.

Members of the Council

Article I, 2. of the Bylaws stipulates that the total number of members should not be less than 100. At least two-thirds of the members must be elected by service units to serve as delegates. Other members of the council include members of the Board of Directors, National Council delegates except staff who serve without vote, past presidents of the council who are members ex-officio, and girl members who are currently serving on the Board of Directors.

Responsibilities of Members of the Council

Those who are elected by service units as delegates undertake one of the most important and significant responsibilities in the Girl Scout Movement. At the Annual Meeting, they:

1. Listen to and assess stewardship reports;
2. Elect the officers, the members-at-large of the Board of Directors, and the delegates and alternates to the National Council of Girl Scouts of the USA;
3. Vote on amendments to the Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws; and
4. Listen to all opinions expressed and participate in debate on action items.

Preparation for the Annual Meeting

All delegates are required to prepare for their delegate position responsibilities.

1. Review this manual and understand the purpose of the Annual Meeting in order to fully participate in the decision-influencing process, become familiar with procedures established for the Annual Meeting, and study parliamentary procedures that will be in effect during the Annual Meeting.
2. Present views of the service unit to the delegates for referral to the Board of Directors and to receive delegates' reports.
3. Consider proposed plans, policies, and other matters referred to the service unit by the Board of Directors.

ANNUAL MEETING PROCEDURES

The Annual Meeting of the Council is held in January or February of each year. The Delegate Workbook provides written notice of time, place and purpose of the meeting, together with the slate of nominees for all offices or positions to be filled pursuant to the Bylaws. The Workbook is given personally, mailed, or electronically transmitted to each member of the council not more than 45 and not less than 30 days before the meeting.

The Annual Meeting is conducted in accordance with:

- The Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws of Girl Scouts of Gulfcoast Florida, Inc.
- Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised, in its most recent version

BEFORE THE MEETING:

When you arrive at the Annual Meeting, sign in at your service unit table. You will receive a ballot, voting cards, and a nametag with an attached ribbon. The color of the ribbon designates your position at the Annual Meeting, e.g., delegate ribbons are red, Board of Director ribbons are yellow, etc.

THE MEETING:

The Annual Meeting begins with the Call to Order, followed by the Opening Flag Ceremony and the Welcome.

Appointments

The president makes appointments to allow the meeting to run smoothly. These appointments may include a parliamentarian, a committee to approve the minutes, and tellers to count votes.

Approval of the Minutes

Copies of the minutes from the previous Annual Meeting, which were approved by the Minutes Committee, are included in the Delegate Workbook.

Report of the Delegate Count

The president announces what constitutes a quorum and the number of voting members needed to constitute a quorum. The Bylaws state that twenty-five percent of the voting members of the council shall be present to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, provided that a majority of service units have at least one elected delegate present at the meeting.

The chief teller reports the number of voting members present, the number of service units represented, the total number of service units, and the number of non-voting members present, for a total number present at the Annual Meeting. The president announces whether a quorum is present. A revised delegate count of voting members may be given, if needed, before a vote is taken.

Stewardship Reports

Reports are given at the Annual Meeting. By receiving and listening to reports and information, delegates can make thoughtful and informed decisions to provide input for Girl Scouting in the Council and help set the strategic direction for Girl Scouting in the Council. The treasurer, president, chief executive officer, and committee or task group chairs may make presentations.

Voting and Elections

Article I, 8. of the Bylaws states that each member of the council present in person is entitled to one vote. Voting is held to elect officers, members-at-large of the Board of Directors, and, every three years, National Council delegates and alternates.

Throughout the year, anyone may submit names to the Board of Directors (appointed Board Development Committee) for positions on the Board of Directors. To fulfill the requirements of the charter issued to Girl Scouts of Gulfcoast Florida, Inc., by Girl Scouts of the USA, members of the Board of Directors should reflect the diversity of the population within the council's jurisdiction. Prospective nominees should bring a variety of points of view, life experiences, and access to cultural, religious, educational, civic, and economic resources available throughout the council's jurisdiction.

The Board of Directors presents a report to the members at the Annual Meeting with a single slate of nominees (one nominee for each position). A single slate is presented, since each nominee on the slate is dedicated to the same purpose and goal to serve girls in the council with Girl Scout program.

After the report to the members is presented, the process of elections begins. Nominations may be made from the floor, but persons nominated from the floor must be eligible for election according to the Bylaws, and the nomination must have been submitted in writing to the Board of Directors at least 72 hours before the convening of the Annual Meeting. Officers are elected every two years and one-half of the members-at-large of the Board of Directors each year. National Council meetings are held every three years, so National Council delegates and alternates are only elected in the year of the National Council meeting. When there is an election of officers, it is done one office at a time. The president reads the office, the nominee's name, and asks for nominations from the floor according to the Bylaws requirement. For the election of members-at-large of the Board of Directors, and National Council delegates and alternates, the president reads each category of nominees and then asks for nominations from the floor according to the Bylaws requirement.

Article I, 8. of the Bylaws provides that election is by ballot when there is more than one nominee for any vacancy and may be by voice or other means when there is a single nominee. If there is a single nominee for each position, the delegates may choose to have a hand vote. For this to occur, a motion from the floor must be made and seconded that those nominated be declared elected. The president will restate the motion and voting takes place. A plurality (the largest number of votes given to a nominee) of votes cast shall elect.

The green and red cards provided at check-in are used for voting. Green signifies agreement and red signifies opposition. When instructed by the president to vote, hold the appropriate card high so that votes may be counted. The president will rule on the outcome of the vote.

At the Annual Meeting, there may be other matters requiring a vote. For example, there may be proposals to amend the Articles of Incorporation and/or Bylaws. Matters such as these are determined by majority vote of the members present and voting. Voting is done by holding up the green and red cards when instructed.

Other Agenda Items

At each Annual Meeting, there may be a keynote address, installation and rededication of those who were elected during the meeting, an invitation to the next Annual Meeting, and awards or presentations. The Annual Meeting ends with adjournment by the president.
